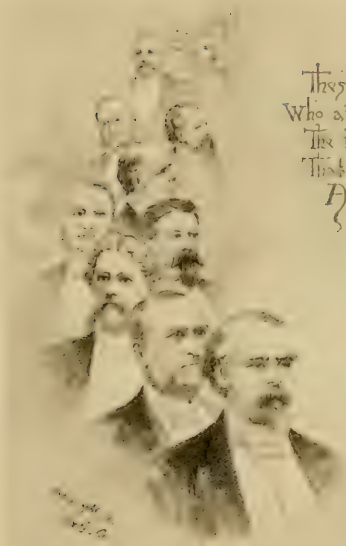
At Delmonico's.

THURSDAY JANUARY 23RD

— 1890. —

This is the menu of dainty fare
That is set before men of intelligence rare
And served in the room at Delmonico's.



These are the jurymen cute and sly;
Who are specially sworn to sit and try
The terrapin menu of daily fare,
That is set before men of intelligence rare.
And served in the room at Delmonico's.

This is the waiter (an improvement on coons
Who checks the silver and counts the spoons.
Used by the jurymen cute and spry:
Who are specially sworn to sit and try
The toothsome menu of dainty fare.
That is set before men of intelligence rare
And served in the room at Delmonico's.

Potatoes Duchess style.

Graves

This is my first-my first oyster.
That makes a man cry "quantum suf"
When he's served on the fish where mouth and eyes
Wear an injured look of sad surprise,
As he follows the soup-the Consom-me,
(Into which we shall all of us fall some day)
Served by the waiter (an improvement on spoons)
Who checks the silver and counts the spoons,
Used by the juryman rule and spy.
Who are specially sworn to sit and try
The toothsome menu of dainty fare,
That is set before men of intelligence rare,
And served in the room at Parmenter's.

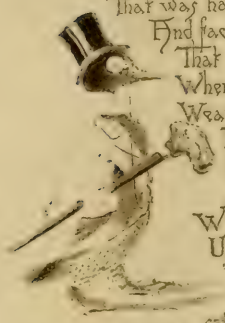
Sherbet, Dalmatic



And this is the duck, the Canvas back,
The monarch of all that swim or quack,
Try a bit of the breast, or a savory wing,
Ere it follows the Chicken, the Child of Spring
That was hatched when George the Fourth was King
And faced the fillet-the first de boeuf,
That makes a man cry "quantum suf"
When he's gorged on the fish whose mouth and eyes
Wear an injured look of sad surprise,
As he follows the soup-the Consom-me,
Into which we shall all of us fall some day)
Served by the waiter (an improvement on
Who checks the silver and counts the spoons,

And these are the stuffed banana fish,
And this is the clear and sparkling wine,
(At least what there is left of it on deck)
The Moet, Perrier, and the Pomeroy see;
And these are the choicest of choice liqueurs,
(The petites bonnes bouches that wealth procures.)
And these are the fragrant weeds that come
From far Key West (or nearer home)
And they soothe the heart and gladden the eye
Of the noble jury duke and shy,
Who are specially sworn to sit and try
The tooth some menu of dainty fare,
That is set before men (of intelligence rare)
And served in the room at Delmonico's.
